Do you Need Buildings?

If you do and put off building because lumber is high, are you not making a mistake?

There is not any prospect at present of lumber prices going down much for a number of years, and the comfort you and your family will get out of a good house will more than repay any extra cost. If it is a barn or machine shed you need your live stock and the life of your machinery will more than repay any extra cost.

Our prices, however, are not high, our price list mailed to you on request, will prove that the quality is of the best and is thoroughly air dried.

Our National Thanksgiving

By proclamation of the Governor-General in Council, Monday, October 18, has been declared to be a day of national thanksgiving in Canada, and all classes of the Canadian people are asked to observe it as such.

There are many good and substantial reasons why the people of this Dominion should observe Thanksgiving Day this year, not merely as a holiday, but in a deep and reverent spirit of thanksgiving.

A kindly Providence has blessed the labors of our husbandmen with a bountiful harvest, not, perhaps, one of those bumper crops which come once in a while, but a better crop than has been reaped in the West for some years past. Unlike the past two or three years, there are no extensive areas of the Prairie Provinces which have suffered a crop failure this year. White costs of production have remained high, world conditions are such as to guarantee a good price for Western Canada's grain crop.

Coupled with a satisfactory return from our fields, business conditions throughout Canada have continued uniformly good during the year. Our factories have been busy, there has been a marked revival in building operations, work has been plentiful and wages high. In fact the only check to development in Canada this year has been occasioned by inability to secure supplies and materials in sufficient quantities to meet all demands.

Compared with other countries, Canada has been remarkably free from industrial turmoil and strife this year. Labor troubles, culminating in strikes, have been few in number, and those which have taken place have been settled generally in an amicable way, and there has not been those great upheavals which last year caused enormous loss and suffering and at one time seemed to threaten the continuance of responsible constitutional government in this country. Both Labor and Capital have met their responsibilities to each other, and to the country at large, in a manner worthy of praise and deserving of the commendation of all people. Both have benefited and Canada has prospered. Canadians have good reason to be thankful over such a situation.

During 1920, too, Canada has been remarkably free from serious epidemics of disease and no great disasters have occurred, bringing loss, and sorrow and death to whole communities. This is indeed a cause for thankfulness.

The unrest which pervaded all ranks of society following the close of the war still affects our people, but it is more and more finding its manifestation in desires, plans and movements designed to bring about better conditions of living, of health, a higher standard of education and a more general provision that all people shall enjoy some of the best things in life. There is in evidence an impatience with conditions which made for evil and suffering in the past and a very widespread determination for a better standard of living for all. Such a feeling is a cause for national thanksgiving because it must inevitably result in finer national ideals and important reforms.

Canada bore itself nobly in the war. It was a time for sacrifice and service and the Canadian people did their full duty, and have reason to be proud of the part their Dominion took in that great crusade for human liberty. Equally, have our people a right to congratulate themselves upon the comparative ease and success with which the Dominion has reverted to a peace basis and has re-absorbed its soldiers and war workers into civilian life without any serious trouble. These things are cause for sincere thanksgiving.

But if a contemplation of conditions at home is not a sufficient cause for thanksgiving, it is only necessary that Canadians should consider for a moment present conditions existing in a large part of Europe and Asia, where a state of war still prevails, where disease and famine stalk through the land, where countless thousands of people are suffering and dying through lack of the bare necessities of life, and where orphan children in their tens of thousands are merely existing without hardly a ray of hope for the future. Viewing conditions in Canada today in the light of conditions in so many European countries, Canadians may well rejoice that their lot has been cast in this Dominion. They may well rejoice and thank God that Canada is their home. And their thanksgiving may well take a practical turn in the form of helping, to the extent that they are able, to alleviate the suffering of others.

Motor Cars in Saskatchewan.

According to statistics recently compiled there is one automobile for every fourteen people in Saskatchewan, thus placing the Province on a par with the United States in this respect.

Where Farming Pays.

A 1,500 acre farm purchased in 1918 near Three Hills, Alberta, recently sold at an advance of $15 per acre, which with the proceeds from the sale of the crop netted the owner $50,000 for one year and a half's work.

Getting A Stand of Alfalfa

Soil Should be Made as Smooth as Possible.

The methods of sowing alfalfa vary with the location and climate. In the arid districts it is a simple matter. The land is usually ploughed in early spring, worked down to a good seed bed, and the seed is sown alone in middle spring time. A crop is often secured the first year, although the plants are not at their best until the third year.

The amount of seed to the acre varies from four to thirty pounds. The smaller amount is generally grown for the production of seed, as it seeds better not to be thick. It has been calculated that there are 148,000 seeds in a bushel of alfalfa seed. Therefore, to sow half a bushel to the acre would put 166 seeds to the square foot. To sow fifteen pounds would put 83 seeds. It is evident that it is more essential to have good seed and good distribution of it than to use a great amount of seed. About twelve to sixteen plants to the square foot are all that will ever stand, and on rich soil, they will not long endure even that much crowding.

Weeds often come up to crowd the young alfalfa. To destroy these weeds the field should be mown as close to the ground as possible. There may come a yellowish rust which attacks the leaves, but it is very uncommon. To destroy this cut close with a mower. When preparing soil for alfalfa, leave as smooth as possible so that it all can be securely mowed.

Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis

If there is an ailment in the throat or chest, it is surely essential that the remedy be conveyed direct to the affected part. It is because the healing vapor of Catarrhazone is breathed into the sore, irritated throat and bronchial tubes that its balsamic fumes kill the germs and destroy the cause of the trouble. These are the reasons why Catarrhazone never yet failed to cure a genuine case of Catarrh, Asthma, Bronchitis or Throat Trouble.

The wonderfully-soothing vapor of Catarrhazone instantly reaches the further recesses of the lungs, produces a healing curative effect that is impossible with a tablet or liquid, which goes merely to the stomach, and fails entirely to help the throat or lungs.

Catarrhazone Just Breathe It

To permanently cure your winter ill, your cough, cold, and Catarrh, by all means use a tried and proven remedy like Catarrhazone. It is a powerful and effective substitute. Large outfit lasts two months, costs $1.00, small size 50c, trial size 25c, at dealers everywhere.

The use of Miller's Worm Powders insures healthy children so far as the ailments attributable to worms are concerned. A high mortality among children is traceable to worms. These sap the strength of infants so that they are unable to maintain the battle for life and succumb to weakness. This preparation gives promise of health and keeps it.

Alberta Wool Marketed.

Three hundred thousand pounds of wool have so far been shipped from Alberta to the Co-operative Wool Growers' Association in Toronto for disposal, and there are still two carlots to ship. This is a record, as last year the total output was only 260,000 pounds. For some time, there was no market for wool, but it is now quoted at anywhere from 25c to 60c per pound. The Association this year has handled about 2,000,000 pounds of wool from all parts of Canada, and the price secured is considered to be a splendid example of co-operation.

Greater Production

Big Grain Crops From Cultivation of Indian Lands.

Ottawa.—The greater production movement inaugurated by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen through the Indian Department in 1918 whereby some 20,000 acres of Indian lands throughout the prairie provinces were cultivated and turned over to grain growing, has more than justified the hopes of the officials who were behind it. The advances made by the Government for carrying out the scheme will be repaid this year, and it is estimated that there will be a surplus of about $1,000,000, as a result of the splendid crops harvested on all these lands, which, previous to 1918 produced only prairie hay and grass.

Dominion Prosperous.
Hon. J. D. Reid, Canadian Minister of Railways and Canals, on landing in England from Canada, gave to interviewers a rosy picture of Canadian conditions. He said that the railway proposition of the Dominion was good. "We have magnificent crops, our industries are running almost full time, and we have very few labor troubles," the minister added. "Our revenues are fully up to expectations, we are commencing to play off our war debt, and we are a happy and contented people. What more could we desire?"

Helping Livestock.

Nearly $120,000 has been guaranteed this year under the Livestock Encouragement Act of the province, and it is estimated that a total of $275,000 will be loaned for the year. The money is being used largely by farmers to buy milch cows.

CHILDHOOD INDIGESTION

Nothing is more common in childhood than indigestion. Nothing is more dangerous to proper growth, more weakening to the constitution or more likely to pave the way to dangerous disease. Fully nine-tenths of all the minor ills of childhood have their root in indigestion. There is no medicine for the little ones to equal Baby's Own Tablets in relieving this trouble. They have proved of benefit in thousands of homes. Concerning them Mrs. Jos. Lunette, Immaculate Conception, Que., writes: "My baby was a great sufferer from indigestion, but the Tablets soon set her right and now I would not be without them. Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont."

Organized Farmers Arrange Joint Drive

Week of November 1st fixed as date for Campaign in three Western Provinces

According to reports received at this office, the week beginning November 1st will witness the greatest organization campaign ever conducted by the farmers' associations of the West. The campaign is to be carried on at the same time in each one of the three Western Provinces under the auspices of the U. F. A., the Sask. Grain Growers' Association and the United Farmers of Manitoba. It is expected that there will be upwards of ten thousand canvassers working under approximately six hundred district captains and forty constituency organizers. These canvassers will personally visit the resident farmers in their respective districts and solicit, from each one, money with which to finance the organization.

Plan of Organization

There is, in each of the three provinces, a Central or Provincial Committee. The plans for this joint drive were arranged through a conference of the 'Central Committees' and with the consent of the various constituency boards. The plans are uniform for the three provinces.

Messrs. Herbert Greenfield, Westlock; L. M. Goetz, Red Deer and Snow Sears, Nanton, constitute the Central Committee for Alberta. On the recommendation of this committee each of the twelve constituency boards has appointed an organizer who will have full authority for the district.

The constituency organizer—working with the members of the constituency boards—is subdividing all of the territory in the district into units of approximately nine townships each and over each unit of nine townships is placing a "District Captain." The district captains are endeavoring to enlist the services of at least one man or woman in each one-half township under their respective jurisdictions—who will agree to personally visit every resident in the district on November 1st or November 2nd and solicit from each one $5.00, this $5.00 will pay for a membership in the Association—a years subscription to the official organ—and membership dues in the political organization.

A similar membership drive was made in Saskatchewan last October—and in Manitoba in March 1920. In the Saskatchewan drive upward of 2000 canvassers were enlisted and the sum of $82,000.00 was collected. In Manitoba about 1000 canvassers were in the field and over $50,000.00 was secured.

The drive to be held in November has been much more thoroughly organized and it is confidently expected that upwards of 10,000 active canvassers will be enlisted for campaign.

Charged with Stealing $150 at Acme

Vernon Rawn was committed for trial by L. McCook, J.P., Acme, on a charge of stealing $150, the property of V. Younger, who resides in the Belsaker district. The two men were sleeping together on the night of October 3rd, and in the morning, Younger missed the money which consisted of fifteen $10 bills of the Union Bank.

Accused acknowledged to Constable Valk, of the Provincial police that he had taken the money, which he handed over to the constable. He was taken to Calgary by the Provincial police constable.

He stretched a claw-like finger toward the portrait.

"You know white girl; good. You no touch Bushwhacker!"

Hallibut stood frowning upon the old Indian.

"Listen," he said, sitting down beside the old man, "you must understand that the portrait you see on the wall is not of a Bushwhacker girl or of anyone else you know. That's the likeness of a sister I had, and, long years and years ago. It was painted in England, a land across the Great Waters, Noah."

"No, no," cried the Indian. "Noah have good eyes. He can see and understand. Big man need not lie—white girl Noah's good friend."

Hallibut arose and wiped his streaming brow. Then he sank into a chair and ran his fingers through his gray hair.

"I'm hanged if I know what he's driving at," he mused. "Apparently he thinks I want to wipe the Bushwhackers off the map." Aloud he said, "Who sent you here, my good man?"

Noah did not answer. He was looking into the coals.

"Bushwhacker know big man would steal bush," he said at length. "They no want big man there. Noah no want see big man steal good friend's home. Big man no come; no send other man. Gloss big man friend."

Once more Colonel Hallibut looked puzzled. "I'm hanged if I understand what he means," he muttered. "Big man no send vessel," went on the Indian. "Bushwhacker no want 'um. Scare duck plenty bad. Noah come tell big man no send."

"Ah," exclaimed Hallibut, "I'm beginning to see light. They sent you over to tell me I mustn't send my schooner up the creek, eh?"

"No one send; Noah come himself. Noah know Bushwhacker shoot when big man come take timber. Big man no come—no send agent again." The Colonel arose and paced up and down the room.

"Well, of all things!" he exclaimed. "What do you think of all this, Phoebe, girl—?" turning to the picture, "what do you think of those impudent Bushwhackers?"

The aged Indian had risen and was wagging his blanket about him.

"Noah," said Hallibut, "the Bushwhackers haven't any particular use for me, I understand. It's pretty near war between us. But I'm going to send my vessel up that creek just the same. I'm willing to promise you that I won't do the Bushwhackers any harm until they try to do me harm. They threaten to burn my schooner, and maybe they will—"

"I'll tell you what I am going to do. I'm going to send that schooner around the Point and into the bay soon. I want you to meet me at the narrows and act as watchman should here. If you don't want the Bushwhackers to come to any harm, you must see that my vessel is not hurt. I believe you are honest, and I will pay you well. What do you say, Noah?"

Noah pointed once more to the portrait.

"You do much for her?" he asked shyly.

The big man started. Then he smiled and said gently:

"Old man, God only knows how much I would do if I could."

"Noah will meet big man's vessel," said the Indian, holding out his hand.

After the strange messenger had eaten and gone, Hallibut paced to and fro across the wide room, pondering deeply upon what he had learned.

He stopped at last before the portrait on the wall.

"I wonder," he said, "if the poor old chap should think he knows you, Phoebe?" he said, addressing the girl in the frame.

It was a custom of his to speak all his inner thoughts to the picture. One may lose summer forever; but he can treasure a dead flower, because its perfume clings to it and never quite dies.

"I like the old man because he thinks he knows you," he murmured, "—just because he thinks he knows you, Phoebe."

His head dropped and he strode toward the door.

"I don't know why I should not teach those Bushwhackers a lesson!" he ejaculated.

He turned and let his frowning eyes rest on the painting, and as he gazed his face softened. The big eyes seemed to be pleading with him.

"Maybe there really is a girl who looks like you, Phoebe," he said gently. "A little girl of the Wild that looks like you."

And the face smiled on him as he passed out through the doorway.

CHAPTER XIII. On the Creek Path.

It was early twilight when the old Indian once again reached Bushwhackers' Place. All day he had kept to the trail, jogging along without a mouthful to eat, simply tightening his belt when hunger gnawed at his stomach.

It was a long journey from Rond Eau Point to St. Thomas, and over rough ground—a very long journey for a man of Noah's age to attempt. But he was an Indian and his sinews were tough like the seasoned hickory fiber, and his spirit was young like the spirit of the great shadowed woodland. Age counted for naught where life derived its strength from his environment.

To the old man Gloss was a star that had loosened itself from some strange firmament and strayed into the green uplands. He had watched her grow from a slender girl into a graceful creature with beauty that nothing of the woodland could match.

One with eyes that held all the lights that ever shone on lake or wood, and life that bubbled and laughed and defied.

For her and her protectors Noah had undertaken the trying mission of visiting the rich man Hallibut, and advising him to leave the men of the hardwoods alone.

He had taken the portrait on the lonely man's walls, for that of Gloss, but this was not strange. The old man's eyes were growing dim and they sometimes played pranks on him. But the incident was sufficient to kind his loyalty to the man who threatened the Bushwhackers.

Noah was willing to act as watchman aboard the schooner. He had lost all the impulsiveness of youth. He was old and wise, and he would watch and wait—and act, if necessary, when the time came.

Gloss, coming up from the spring with a pail of foaming milk, newly strained and ready for "setting," caught sight of her old friend and gave a call like the trill of a marsh-lark. The Indian, without speaking, overtook her and reached for the pail, which he carried to the house and set on the block outside the collar door.

Big McTavish was chopping logs for the evening fire, and caught sight of Noah as he came around the corner of the house.

"Well, well, Chief!" he cried "thought maybe you was on the war-path. Ain't seen you here for days. Come along in and get some supper."

"Good," granted the old man, and followed McTavish into the kitchen.

Gloss laid the cloth for the visitor's supper. Her eyes brightened and her red lips smiled when the old man turned his wrinkled face toward her.

"Noah," she said, "you mustn't stay away from Gloss so long again. It's heap lonely without you here."

Noah's eyes flashed at the words, and he spoke, using only the mellowest words of the English tongue, as was his custom.

"Wild-bird no lonely where wild world be. Gloss speak to make Injun heart glad; now Injun speak to make wild-bird sing. Big water," pointing southward, "big forest," sweeping his arm about, "all stay same. No change. Good, much good."

Noah, he knew, was his custom. Granny McTavish, coming from the bedroom, taught the words of the Indian.

"Rec't, Noah," she smiled, "there'll be no change 'till God wille, and may be he will it free long."

"Ugh, you tell Boy," said Noah, "toll 'im Noah say it."

The old lady held up her hands. "There's na' tellin' him at all whatever," she sighed. "He's muckle disturbed and he'll na' listen to reason. He's out there noo tradin' the wet woods, but he'll na' get comfort there, nor; he maul seek if t' the guid Book. I've told him o' it aften enoo. God forgive him for t' wild creature he is—and he's a guid lad at heart, enoo, a guid lad at heart—"

"Tush, Granny," chided Big McTavish. "Boy's not worriny' ever anythin'. He's a bit unsettled, that's all. He's out in the woods 'cause he loves t' woods. See, you've spoiled Noah's supper for him. He's thinkin' Boy's a bit crazy, maybe."

Noah pushed back his chair from the table and arose.

"You're not going so soon, surely, Noah?" cried Gloss.

"Noah must go to Point," answered the Indian. "Canoe down on East shore."

Gloss snatched up her cap.

"I'll go down to t' shore with you," she cried. "Maybe I'll meet Boy."

"No," said Noah, "Gloss no come."

"But I say yes," replied Gloss, dancing nimbly in front of the old man. "Remember, I haven't seen you for ages, and I must go. Come along."

She took his hand and they passed out together. They walked along, Gloss taking the lead, and neither speaking a word. They understood each other well, and something unbreakable bound them together while

The Alberta Referendum Campaign Committee

To The People Of Alberta

A Closing Message

During the past six months we have done our best to discharge the duty entrusted to us.

At the present moment there are 40 organizers and speakers busily at work throughout the Province. Over 480 Campaign Committees have been organized. Public meetings have been held in every section of Alberta, hundreds of thousands of pamphlets and cards have been distributed, posters and press advertising have been used to the limit of our funds, and everywhere much personal canvass from person to person and house to house has been done. Every effort has been put forth to inform and arouse the public as to the issue.

As active and valued allies of this campaign we have the Christian Church—Catholic and Protestant—the U.F.A., the U.F.W.A., the W.C.T.U., and other temperance organizations, the Women's Institute, the newspapers almost to a unit, the major part of the professional business and labor men.

The campaign thus far has gone well—beyond expectations. Our forces stand to-day united, resolute and confident of victory.

We are out this time to overwhelm and annihilate the liquor traffic in Alberta.

OUR OBJECTIVES ARE:

1. A dry majority in every Provincial Constituency.
2. A dry majority of 50,000 for the whole Province.
3. The largest vote ever polled at an election in Alberta.
4. The highest percentage vote for Prohibition of any Province Polling on October 25th.
5. No Campaign Deficit.

THE SUPREME DUTY NOW IS—
VOTE AND GET OUT THE VOTER.
If we fall down here all our preparatory work has been in vain.

THERE MUST BE NO LIGHT VOTE

ON OCTOBER 25th.
The will of the people must be not only registered as to settle this question for ever. We want no more referendums with their heavy expenditures of time, money and human energy.

We rest our case confidently in the hands of the intelligent and progressive citizens of Alberta. The Church and Science, Business and Labor, the Press and the State, the Home and Society, the School and the Gymnasium have already pronounced strongly against the liquor traffic.

The Jury has rendered a Unanimous Verdict. It is up to the Electors of Alberta on October 25th to Pronounce the Sentence.

Electors sweep this stone of a stumbling block for ever from the path.

Other important reforms—Social, economic, political and educational—are clamoring for consideration. Settle the Liquor Traffic NOW and set free moral energy for other reforms.

And send a Cheer Across the Sea to the Motherland and to the Sisterlands of New Zealand, Australia and South Africa, where the temperance forces are fighting a terrific battle against the entrenched powers of booze.

Their eyes are upon us. Give them a strong lead as at Amiens.

A HEAVY LOAD IS BEING CARRIED BY THE FARMERS

AGRICULTURE UNABLE TO COMPETE UNDER CONDITIONS.

Conflicting Evidence Is Given Before Tariff Commission at Edmonton.

Edmonton, Alta.—Protection as enforced by the present tariff is responsible for the prosperity of Edmonton's industries and is necessary to their expansion, while at the same time it is proving a burden to the farmers and driving them off the land, according to conflicting evidence given before the session of the Tariff Commission here.

The manufacturers of this city endorsed the stand taken in all parts of the Dominion by manufacturers who urge the retention of the protective tariff, while the representatives of the farmers urge that it be dropped, to give them a chance to prosper.

Reduction of the tariff to give the farmers opportunities to buy in the open market, was requested by Hon. Duncan Marshall, provincial minister of agriculture, who was the chief witness before the Tariff Commission at the afternoon session.

"Alberta farmers have to compete in the open market for the sale of their goods, all that they ask is that they have the privilege of buying implements in the same manner, which will enable them to prosper," he said. "The increase of exports will bring revenue to the Dominion treasury and the best means of securing this increase will be to remove the tariff on farm implements," he continued. He pointed out that the farmer cannot possibly benefit by the present tariff. He has to compete in the open market for the sale of his crops; as an example, Mr. Marshall pointed out that this year no British buyers were in the market and that consequently the price of wheat has undergone fluctuations which will mean money loss to every farmer.

He asked that the Dominion Government demand from the British Government permission to allow Canadian livestock growers the entry of their cattle.

Mr. Marshall concluded by asking that the tariff be put on a purely revenue basis, and the element of protection deleted.

Harry Bell, from Namayo, a veteran farmer, gave detailed figures of his expenditures and estimated revenue from the cultivation of a five hundred acre farm. His balance will be, he stated, $3,685, without any deductions for his and a grown-up son's labor. Farmers, he told the commissioners, were entirely unprepared for the drop in wheat prices. He thought that the tariff on farm implements could be fairly cut in half, and so relieve the farmers of some of the burden.

Rice Shepherd, for 15 years an official of the United Farmers of Alberta Association, charged that the Canadian manufacturers took the benefit of the tariff to raise prices of Canadian manufacture.

"Our greatest need is colonization of productive areas, but we must have a corresponding development of urban communities, and these require for their proper growth, a suitable measure of industrial development," said C. G. Robertson before the Tariff Commission here. He represented Edmonton manufacturers who asked for continuance of the tariff without which, they claim, industries would be unable to cope with the U.S. competition. The statement contained a general survey of industrial conditions in the province.

Germans Ordered To Release Ships

Munitions For Poland Are Held in Kiel Canal.

Paris.—The council of ambassadors despatched a note to Germany demanding the immediate release of three ships loaded with munitions for Poland, which are being held in the Kiel Canal by the German authorities. The note specifically mentions the Danish ship Doris, but there are two other ships which also are being held.

Germany has taken the position that she is neutral in the Russo-Polish war and that therefore she could not permit the passage of the ships which are destined for Danzig.

Miners Must Get Easy

Alberta Coal Operators Will Re-open Negotiations When Men Resume Work.

Calgary, Alta.—At a joint meeting of the Western Canada Coal Operators' Associations and officials of the U.M.W. of America, the former stated that the question of opening the existing contract could not be entertained until all the miners were back at work. The request for the re-opening of negotiations with a view to increasing the scale of the day wage workers, was contingent on a large number of the men continuing at work, said the mine operators.

The strike of miners in district 18 has been extended by the walkout of the men at Michael and Fernie, where about 100 men are reported to have left work. There is no addition to the strikers' ranks in the Drumheller field.

DECLARES THAT WHEAT DROP DUE TO OPEN MARKET

PRESIDENT WOOD DEPLORES ABOLITION OF WHEAT BOARD.

Sir George Foster Says Decline Not Result of Fact That Board Is Not Handling Wheat.

Calgary, Alta.—H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, stated that he agreed with the remarks of Hon. George Langley, vice-president of the Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Company, that the present condition of the wheat market was due to the abolition of the Canadian Wheat Board.

"I would prefer, however, to withhold my criticism of the Government until I see what action is taken to meet the present situation," he remarked.

Mr. Wood stated there was no question but that the wheat would have been handled much better through the board than on the open market. Wheat, he said, had declined one dollar a bushel in the cash price since the selling was taken out of the hands of the board. The price to the miller was $3.15 and the export price was not lower.

Ottawa.—Commenting on a news dispatch from Calgary in which H. W. Wood, president of the United Farmers of Alberta, was quoted as saying that Canadian wheat could have been handled very much better through the Canadian Wheat Board

One Great Essential To a Woman's Health Is Her Nerves

Nature intended women to be strong, healthy and happy as the day is long, instead of being sick and wretched. But how many women are so nervous and nervous have lost their social and household duties that they do to their health. Is it any wonder then that they become irritable and nervous, have hot flushes, faint and dizzy spells, smothering and sinking spells, become weak and nervous, and everything in life becomes dark and gloomy.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the very remedy that nervous, tired-out, weary women need to restore them to the blessedness of good health. Mrs. P. H. Ryan, Sand Point, N.S., writes: "I have been a great sufferer from nerve troubles. I was so weak and nervous I could not sleep at night and my appetite was very poor. I could not walk across the floor without trembling. I had hot flushes and fainting spells. I feel now on my second box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I began to feel better and when I felt like a different person, when I never without them in the house and recommend them to all who suffer with their nerves."

than in the open market, and that the price had declined a dollar a bushel since the board had ceased to handle it. Sir George Foster spoke as follows:

"The fact that the price of wheat in Canada has declined one dollar is no proof that it would not have dropped had its sale been under the control of the board. It has declined equally or more in the States. This decline is not due to the fact that a board is not handling the wheat, but is a result of the supply of wheat in Canada at present exceeding the demand. It is not sound reasoning to say that it has declined because the wheat board is not handling it."

Inaugurate Campaign For Canadian Ports

Shipping Interests Bid For Direct Trade With England.

London.—Canadian shipping interests are making a determined effort to capture British trade for Canada by means of Canadian ownership of ships.

Captain Smith, of the Canadian Merchant Marine Co., appeals to British merchants to deal direct with Canada through Canadian agents and to forget the idea that the Canadian market is best approached through New York.

"A legitimate attempt is being made to provide the necessary ships for Canada's export and import trade and open new avenues of direct trade for Canada through Canadian ports. Too much of Canada's trade is carried through the medium of the United States which has an adverse influence here in currency."

FIND DOCUMENTS DEALING WITH SINN FEIN RIOTS

Montreal.—The Montreal Star publishes the following: "The police believe they hold, in the arrest of Michael Symington, the key to the Sinn Fein disorders reported in the Dublin district after the successor of Lord Mayor Macswiney had been appointed. Symington, held without bail, is charged at present with unlawful possession of four rifles.

The rifles, the police claim to have been placed in secret places while Symington was a clerk in the Department of Public Works. The magistrate's hearing revealed not only this, but that the prisoner also possessed minutes of the Irish League of Self Determination. In a packing case where this was discovered, the police came upon the blue prints of the Irish offices and the government buildings surrounding it. In his living room were four army rifles, together with a mass of damaging documents all wrapped in a flag of the Irish republic. Detectives are now searching for vital documents which they think are missing, probably removed by Sinn Fein agents before the police arrived at the suspect's home.

High Type of Character Best Produced Under Country Life Conditions

The teacher who hopes to take a right place in the life of the country school district must cultivate the seeing eye and the understanding heart for persons and things rural. The usual, popular, melodrama, comic supplement, moving picture conception of the farmer and of country people must be forgotten. It is essentially and perniciously false. The farmer is something of a humorist, and takes delight in deceiving the simple-minded by a somewhat unfinished exterior. The city-bred person makes the fatal mistake of judging by outside appearances. To the city-trained eye there are two classes of persons, one wearing overalls and the other wearing white collars. The former class work with their hands. The latter class work with their brains. That is the superficial judgment, which ignores the fact that there is a very great deal of clear, hard thinking done to-day by the men wearing overalls. At any rate the farmer belongs to both classes. The more he understands of those disciplines, which it is the business of the agricultural college to make, the more he absorbs the teaching which it is the business of the college to spread abroad, the better farmer will he be. In order that the teacher may acquire the insight to find the real farmer in the puzzle, it is necessary to realize how large are the intellectual demands which his occupation and his business make upon the farmer of the present day. With this realization comes a new respect and admiration for farming and farmers. That is the first step toward the right point of view.

The second discovery the understanding teacher will make is that farm work and country life are interesting. I do not mean interesting as a novelty and a casual spectacle to the visitor. I mean interesting to one doing the work and living the life. There is nothing that more clearly distinguishes one person from another than the quality of things that interest the mind and please the fancy. "Tell me what you like," says Ruskin "and I will tell you what you are." Of course, it may mean nothing to some persons to be told that country life is interesting. They simply do not believe you, or more correctly perhaps, do not understand you. It is the case of Abraham Lincoln's alleged endorsement of a doubtful show. "For those who like that kind of thing, it is just the kind of thing they like." With respect to farm work and country life, one may put the case variously thus: to rightly trained and educated people, farm work and country life are interesting; or, it is entirely worth while, so to cultivate one's tastes and desires as to be interested in country life. That to farm work furnishes abundant material with which to interest the trained mind is undoubted. It is monotonous only to the dull and the uneducated. No kind of every day experience affords greater variety than farm experience.

If we wish to indicate two distinct types of mind that are interested in quite contrary types of things, we may describe them as city-minded and rural-minded. The city-minded person demands the thronging crowds, the high lights of the streets, the unusual, the spectacular, the sensational. These are his marvels. The rural-minded person finds his marvels in the commonplace, in the things that happen every day—the rising and the setting of the sun, the shifting forms of clouds, the wonders of generation and birth and growth, the control of natural processes by human intelligence and skill. Farm life may be relatively unprofitable and arduous and therefore unattractive to those who seek ease or large profits. But it is interesting. This also the teacher who wishes to fit into the country picture must learn. To learn it, there must be developed "The disciplined habit to see."

For a full generation the national life in Canada, in its thinking and its aims, has been marked by the growing influence of the towns and cities. Rural values have diminished, rural mindedness has been scorned. So much is this so, that rural values are not accepted even in the country, and people living in the country have become too much inclined to accept and adopt city standards in all things. That the change has been for the good of the nation, no true patriot will claim. Industry, thrift, prudence, intelligence, resourcefulness, sanity of judgment and steadiness of conviction are qualities of character essential at all times to the well-being of the nation, and particularly needed now. These qualities are best produced under the conditions of country life. But so greatly has the town influence increased, that only the shrewdest and clearest-sighted of country people have not been lulled into the belief that what one does is respect for and faith in one's occupation, and satisfaction in one's way of living. Let the teachers find this point of view towards the farm and country, and become to the country schools worthy apostles of a worthy gospel.—Extract from article by J. B. Reynolds, M.A., President Ontario Agricultural College.

Royal Exhibits at Alberta Exhibition

Sheep From Prince of Wales Ranch Entered at Calgary Show.

The first entries of stock to be made by the Prince of Wales in any agricultural show in Canada were made recently by the manager of the E. P. ranch near High River, Alberta, when he entered sheep in the October sale and show of the Calgary Exhibition Association, which is to be held towards the end of October.

The Earl of Minto, who has a ranch adjoining the Prince of Wales' ranch, has also entered some thoroughbred stock for this show.

His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, is offering twenty yearling Shropshire ewes, three yearling rams and three Shropshire ram lambs. These are originally from the flock of the Duke of Westminster, who has one of the best flocks in England, and among this offering are winners at the Royal and Shropshire shows of 1920.

The offerings of the Earl of Minto include five Oxford ram lambs and one yearling Oxford ram of exceptional quality.

Manitoba's Wealth

Natural Resources of Province Are Beyond Conception.

That the second largest city in Manitoba will emerge from the wilderness in the northern part of the province when the vast natural resources of the hinterland are developed, was the prediction of Mayor Charles F. Gray upon return from a trip north with the Manitoba Legislature party.

The Flin Flon, he said, would be the greatest copper mine in the world. A stampede to the district is inevitable, he added. "It makes the brain reel when one sees the possibilities there in timber, pulpwood, fish, water power, copper, lead, sulphide and precious metals, such as gold, silver, radium and tungsten, north of 53," he said. "The mining possibilities in that district will create one of the most lucrative mining fields the world has ever seen."

The people of Manitoba, he declared, have no conception of the untapped resources of the province. The Flin Flon mine has ore in sight worth $180,000,000. The diamond drilling in the mine so far has shown the vein to be 300 feet wide, 2,500 feet long and 900 feet deep, and the end of its possibilities is not known, concluded the mayor.

Elevator Charges May Increase

Advance Will Apply Only to Grain in Storage.

The effect of the proposed increase in elevator charges for stored grain will be to enable the companies to give a better price to the farmers on wagon-load grain sold at the elevator, in the opinion of the Hon. George Langley, Saskatchewan Minister of Municipal Affairs. Following representations made by the elevator companies, Mr. Langley expresses the opinion that the Board of Grain Commissioners will permit a reasonable advance to apply, however, only to grain to storage. No increases in elevator charges for handling and storing grain have been made since 1912, though building and operation costs have advanced 100 per cent. since that time.

Increased Production Must Depend Largely On Stabilizing Profits

There are three chief things that the community expects from the farmer.

First—The community wants the farmer to keep on producing; wants him to increase production of foodstuffs.

Second—It wants the farmer to stay on the farm. It does not want all the farmers to move into the cities, but it wants to be sure that there are enough men left to carry on the work of production.

Third—The community expects of the farmer that somehow or other the farmer will develop into a land owner, and that Canada will be dotted literally by millions of small farm owners, living on their own farms and owning them and working them and producing.

The community wants the first thing because it wants production, so that it can have something to eat. It wants the second thing—that is, the farmer to stay on the farm—to insure production. It wants the third thing—the creation of a large class of small land owners—as an insurance against a wild revolution in the country, because everybody knows that if you have a million small land owners in Canada you will have stable government. You will have government that respects the right of property, if property has rights to respect.

In short, the community expects the farmer to do a whole lot that will mean something to the men in the cities. People expect the farmers to feed the cities, and they expect the farmers to keep down the revolution that might wipe out the banks and the commercial prosperity of the cities.

Well, the farmer agrees with you. The farmer wants those things just the same as you do, but the farmer is wise enough to see that he can accomplish those three things only if he makes profits. He will increase production where he makes money on production, and he will stay on the farm as long as the profits from his production are enough to enable him to live on the same standard as the man who lives in the city.

You cannot expect the young men and the young women on the farm to stick to the standard of 1860, when they know the standards of the city dweller of 1920. So the farmer says: "If you want me to stay on the farm and increase production, you must not only help me make a profit on my production, but it must be such a profit as will enable me to have running water in my house; electric power in my house; as will enable me to keep my wife out of the field and let her do just simply the work in the house; as will enable me to send my boys and girls through high school; as will enable me to get recreation; as will enable me to keep up life insurance policies, and to live on the 1920 standards instead of the 1860 standards."

Then the farmer says: "If you expect me to own my place, you must not only make it possible for me to make profits and to make substantial profits, but you must make it possible for me to make a stabilized profit, so that I do not make a profit in the year 1917 and then lose and more besides in the years 1918 and 1919."

Getting Railway Labor

Unusual Arrangements Being Made For Supplying Men in 1921.

The railway mileage of the government railways of Canada now reaches the large total of 22,375. The mileage of the Canadian Pacific at the close of 1919 amounted to 14,006. The mileage of the Soo line and the Duluth South Shore amounted to 4,853 in addition.

The employees in the service of the government roads number about 90,000. The freight cars number 120,000, the passenger cars 3,200, and the locomotives about 3,000.

It is said that the tonnage to be carried annually by all government roads will be in the neighborhood of 20,000,000, and the passengers about 60,000,000.

During the war little was done in the matter of the extension of Canadian railways and only essential betterment work was done. It is known that both the government officials and those of the C.P.R. are actively preparing for much work of this character in 1921.

One great problem in that of necessary labor and it is stated that extraordinary measures have been adopted to ensure the presence of a satisfactory class of navies. It is regarded as undesirable that Oriental labor should be brought to the Dominion under the indenture system, and it is likely that the men needed for the work will be secured almost wholly in the United Kingdom. Arrangements will be made so that a large majority of the men who come out in the spring will return in the late autumn to their homes in Britain.

Not Dead Yet

There is a type of person going about today prophesying the prompt dissolution of the British Empire. "Look at Egypt," he cries, "Look at Ireland! Look at India!" We are quite prepared to contemplate all these countries not only with equanimity, but with cheerfulness. Both Egypt and India are going through the process of change inevitable as East and West come into contact. The pace of this growth has been immensely stimulated by the world shock of the war. Naturally there are growing pains—that is all. This vitality is a sign of life, not of death.—London Daily Express.

Alaska Losing Its Population

Settlers Are Becoming Dissatisfied and Leaving the Country.

Alaska is losing its population. Unofficial figures say that as much as fifty per cent. of the population has emigrated from the country. A commissioner is now en route to Washington to discuss the matter with officials there. The trouble is laid partially at least at the door of the administration. The Alaskans charge that there are so many bureaucrats and such bureaucratic methods are employed that it is impossible to get the changes in rules, regulations and policies with sufficient promptness to take care of the situation when it is essential that it be taken care of. The result is, many people have become disgusted and left the country. It will be recalled that four months ago there were reports that Bolshevism had broken out in the country. The malady was not as Bolshevism, but it was discontent and a dissatisfaction which led to emigration.

The real reason for the trouble is that the gold mines in most localities are worked low. At least they are not as productive as they once were. The population drawn there by the gold mines found little co-operation on the part of the territorial government. The transportation facilities were far from what they should be. The settlers might be able to pay the high prices to transport as profitable an article as gold, but they were not able to pay the high rates for the transportation of less profitable products.

Want British Men and Money.

At the banquet given in Edmonton recently by the Provincial Government to the Imperial Press party, Premier Stewart asked the newspapersmen from overseas to take back the word that Alberta wanted men and money from Great Britain. Settlers of good British stock, and particularly those who had a knowledge of farming, were desired, in order that the resources of this province might be adequately developed, while at the same time maintaining the Anglo-Saxon predominance.

Manitoba's Grain Acreage

Crop Expected to Yield a Record Financial Return to Farmers.

Manitoba's total crop area for 1920 slightly exceeds 6,000,000 acres, falling short of last year's figures by 300,000 acres, according to official estimates given out by the provincial department of agriculture. Despite decrease, however, the crop is expected to yield a record financial return to farmers. The total estimated wheat acreage is 2,105,622 acres, as against 2,880,301 acres in 1919. Oats acreage increase 26,687 with a total acreage of 1,873,954. Barley and rye show a decrease, while flax shows a notable increase, there being 89,000 acres more than last year.

FREQUENT HEADACHES A DANGER SIGNAL

The Victim Nearly Always Suffers From Weak Watery Blood.

There are few ailments that cause more genuine misery than nervous or sick headaches. Only those who have endured the suffering, sometimes for days at a stretch, can realize the agony of the victims. Noises increase the pain; food is unthoughtful for it only adds to the distress. When the attack is on there is little to be done until it passes away. These headaches are nearly always a danger signal that too frequently pass unheeded. They are the symptoms of many maladies, such as anaemia, constipation, indigestion, etc., and when these are cured the headaches permanently disappear.

Headaches are more often a sign of weak, watery blood than anything else, and the most successful treatment, therefore, is a remedy that will rebuild the blood and make it rich and red. This can be done through a fair course of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which has a special action on the blood, and through the blood on the nerves. In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases due to poor, watery blood such as anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, after effects of influenza, neuritis, etc. The effectiveness of this tonic treatment is illustrated in the following case: Mrs. Geo. Arn, R.R. No. 6, Simcoe, Ont., says—"Some years ago my daughter, then a young girl of eleven, became very much run down and nervous. She was troubled greatly with sick headaches, and frequently with vomiting spells, and although we lived just across the road from the school, she was not able to attend. She was taking medicine all this time, but it did not seem to her any good. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and finally decided to give them to her. By the time she had taken two boxes she seemed much better, and before the fifth box was finished, she was again in the best of health and has always since enjoyed the best of health. I am satisfied it was Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that restored her and I have since seen equally good results in other cases." You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

William Rogers and his Son

"Ear, Ear!" Mr. Harrison was in a bad temper, and when an acquaintance met him one morning with the question:

"Ow is your faith today, Mr. 'Arrison?" he waxed wrathful. "My name is not 'Arrison," snapped Mr. H.

"Well," said the other, "if a haich, a hay, two bars, a h, a hes, an' a ho, an' a hen don't spell 'Arrison, then what on earth do they spell?"

Quite a number of the younger generation made the journey to Carstairs and Didsbury on Monday evening last and spent the night tripping the merry tows until the early hours of Tuesday morning. The local hall closes at the end of the present month for entertainment and dance purposes, they are looking to the citizens with the big wads to accommodate them with a suitable building to spend the dull winter evenings.

On Monday last Gow Yen was charged before Justices Lewis and Wigle with assault. Accused was employed as cook at the Alberta Hotel and on Sunday morning was requested to cook some breakfast which he refused. He pleaded guilty to the offence and was sentenced to two months hard labour.
